DID CORONA HIT GORONA THE ECONOMY?

We're stuck in dual crises for the foreseeable future — one that's health-related, and one that's economic. Eventually this will end, but there's no telling when. It's a confusing time, including when it comes to the money-related end of things.

As confirmed cases of the COVID-19 increases globally, businesses are coping with lost revenue and disrupted supply chains as factory shutdowns and quarantine measures spread across the globe, restricting movement and commerce.

Unemployment is skyrocketing, while policymakers across countries race to implement fiscal and monetary measures to alleviate the financial burden on citizens and shore up economies under severe strain.
